Helping You Finance an Emory Education

(2007–2008 Academic Year)

We recognize that your college education is likely one of the bigger investments you and your family ever will make. It is a major commitment, one that—with the right financial plan—will pay off throughout your future. The primary responsibility for meeting the cost of an Emory education rests with the student and family to the extent they are able to pay. Emory University is willing to help you through your college years by offering an array of financial programs. We understand a partnership between the parents, students, and university may be needed to make an education affordable today. We make every effort to meet demonstrated need by using a combination of available funds.

This brochure describes several financial aid programs available to help students and families make an Emory education possible. Many programs are awarded on the basis of financial need; some are awarded for merit and achievement; others are long-term loans designed to extend the period of financing beyond the years of enrollment. All the programs have one objective: to help make an Emory education affordable for you.

Application Process for Need-based Financial Aid

To be eligible for financial assistance, you must be a citizen or eligible noncitizen and admitted as a regular student in a degree-granting program. The College Scholarship Service PROFILE, the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), and your family's complete federal tax documents from the previous year are required of all applicants for Emory need-based assistance. These documents provide us with essential information about your family's financial picture and enable us to offer assistance for which you are eligible.

Please be aware of the following guidelines when applying for need-based financial aid.

Step 1 Register for the PROFILE application online at www.collegeboard.com/profile or by phone at 800.778.6888. Once you register, your personalized PROFILE application will be available to complete over the web. You may list up to ten colleges that will receive your information. 2 Provide Emory's CSS code, 5187, when registering for the PROFILE. See the chart on the next page to determine when you should file your PROFILE application.

Step 2 Submit the 2007–2008 FAFSA online at www.fafsa.ed.gov. All students interested in financial aid should submit the FAFSA by February 15. If you miss the February 15 deadline, you may still submit the FAFSA; if your PROFILE, FAFSA, and tax documents arrive before April 1, you will be considered for all types of financial aid. If your information arrives after April 1, you may only be considered for limited federal aid.

Step 3 Signed and complete copies of the parents' and student's 2006 U.S. federal income-tax returns, schedules, and W-2 forms are required of all financial aid applicants. Award notification will be mailed once the Office of Financial Aid receives and reviews tax returns. Tax returns must be mailed directly to the Office of Financial Aid; they must be received no later than April 1. The Office of Admission will not grant an admission deposit extension if you do not submit your tax documents, PROFILE, and FAFSA by the required deadlines.

*All Early Decision applicants who wish to receive financial aid must also submit the FAFSA and their family's complete 2006 tax documents. This information must be submitted to the Office of Financial Aid before April 1. (See page 4 for more information.)

For first-year, regular decision applicants, the PROFILE and FAFSA should be submitted by February 15. If you miss this deadline, you may still submit the required forms; if they arrive before April 1, you may still be considered for financial aid. If you have missed the February 15 deadline, we recommend that you submit each form online.

You must be nominated for the Emory Scholars program. (See page 11 for details.)

We recommend you send copies of your tax returns by certified mail and keep your receipt as verification of the mailing date. Deadlines are important. We will review tax returns with your PROFILE and FAFSA, make corrections if needed and/or required by law, and determine your eligibility for student aid.

Admitted students with PROFILEs, FAFSAs, and tax returns submitted by the deadlines will be notified of aid eligibility in early April. Please complete these documents accurately and legibly, adhering to the calendar dates listed above. Applicants may check their financial aid application status and award letter online at www.opus.emory.edu.

Federal Tax Returns Required for Early Decision I and II Applicants

In addition to the 2006 federal tax forms required of all applicants, Early Decision I and II applicants must submit copies of parents' and students' most recent complete federal tax return (2005) in order for the Office of Financial Aid to process an estimated financial aid award. The Office of Admission will not grant a deposit extension if you have not submitted your 2005 tax returns and the PROFILE by the appropriate deadlines.

For ED I the 2005 tax documents and PROFILE must be submitted by November 1; for ED II these documents must be submitted by January 1.

By February 15, all ED applicants should submit the 2006–2007 FAFSA. By April 1, complete and signed 2005 federal tax returns for the student and parent should be submitted to Emory’s Office of Financial Aid.

Cost of Education

The following figures are for the 2006–2007 academic year. The cost of attendance for 2007–2008 will be established in February 2007.

2006–2007 Emory College Estimated Average Expenses

These figures are estimated average expenses for 2006–2007 and represent the amounts used for purposes of determining financial aid eligibility. Please note that some of the items are fixed, which means that you are billed for a specific amount. Other items are variable, and you may spend more or less depending on the choices you make. Food costs are both fixed and variable because you are billed for a fixed charge, but may actually spend more. See the next page for typical expenses not covered by financial aid.

Tuition $32,100

Fixed charge for twelve credit hours or more for which you are billed.

Fees $406

Fixed athletic and activity fees for which you are billed. In addition to these fees, first-year students pay an orientation fee of $100 and a housing reservation fee of $200.

Books $1,000

Per information from the Emory Bookstore, this is the average expense for required books. Will vary by curriculum.

Room $6,112

Students living in residence halls are billed for a specific hall. This figure represents the average charge for a double room, and includes all utilities, local telephone service, cable television, and a campus computer network connection. As an average, it may be more or less than your actual charges.

Food $3,826

This is perhaps the most unpredictable figure because students have such different eating habits. The estimated food expense listed here assumes moderate eating habits using on-campus facilities.

Personal $800

Also a variable figure, which includes such items as laundry, telephone, grooming, and entertainment.

Travel $600

Represents a modest travel allowance. Actual expenses will vary by student.

Total $44,844

Note: Expenses many students have that are not covered by financial aid include books, food, travel, and incidental expenses that exceed the amounts listed above. Expenditures in excess of these amounts are covered by the family, not by financial aid. Also, club and organization fees, supplies for extracurricular classes, and car expenses are not included in the financial aid budget.

Need Based Award Information for 2006 First-Year Students

Total Award: $27,475

Types of Financial Aid Available

(The details of the following programs are correct at the time of printing. They are subject to change pending legislative action.)

The Emory University Office of Financial Aid offers three basic types of need-based financial aid. An award package typically includes a combination of all three; you may accept all or part of the award offered.

Grants and Scholarships

Gift assistance that does not have to be earned or repaid.

Employment

An award for which a student must work. Money is earned hourly, and the student is paid twice each month.

Loans

Low-interest awards that must be repaid after the student ceases to be enrolled at least half-time at a postsecondary institution.

6 By submitting the PROFILE, FAFSA, and required tax documents, you are automatically considered for all need-based awards administered by Emory University.

Grants

Emory College Grant (ECG) is need-based gift assistance funded by Emory College. It may be part of your financial aid package and is based on an institutional assessment of your need and available funds.

Federal Supplemental Education Opportunity Grants (FSEOG) are provided to students with the greatest need who are also eligible for a Federal Pell Grant.

Federal Pell Grants are awarded to students with exceptional need; they range from $400 to $4,050 annually. The amount of your grant is based on your federal eligibility and on the cost of education at the institution you decide to attend.

Georgia Tuition Equalization Grants (GTEG) and Hope Scholarship funds are provided by the state of Georgia to all eligible residents regardless of need. Although the PROFILE/FAFSA are not required, applicants must complete a Hope/GTEG application online at the Georgia Student Finance Commission's website, www.gsfc.org/HOPE. Emory must be selected as the attending institution.

Employment

Federal Work-Study is student employment and is based on eligibility as demonstrated by the FAFSA. Work-study awards typically require ten to fifteen hours per week of employment; the average award at Emory is $1,800 per year. Students are paid every two weeks throughout the academic year for hours worked.

Other employment opportunities exist. The Office of Financial Aid maintains a listing of off-campus jobs that are available to all students at Emory. Wage rates, hours, and conditions of employment are strictly between the student and the employer. These jobs are not based on need.

Loans

Federal Perkins Loans are awarded to students with exceptional need. Interest is not charged while the student is in school; a 5 percent interest rate begins to accrue when repayment starts nine months after withdrawal from school. The annual maximum Perkins Loan award is $4,000 annually for undergraduates.

Federal Stafford Loans are low-interest loans provided by private lenders. The interest rate is fixed at 6.8 percent as of July 1, 2006, for the life of the loan. The maximum loan for first-year students is $2,625, $3,500 for sophomores, $5,500 for juniors and seniors.

Federal Parent Loans for Undergraduate Students (PLUS) are made to credit-worthy parents of undergraduate students. The loans are not based on need; thus, money may be borrowed in amounts up to the total cost of the student's education (minus other financial aid). PLUS loans carry a fixed interest rate at 8.5 percent as of July 1, 2006, for the life of the loan. Repayment begins sixty days after disbursement.

Other Scholarships

The scholarships listed below are administered by the Office of Financial Aid.

Emory National Merit Scholarships are awarded to National Merit finalists who select Emory as their first-choice college. An honorarium of $1,000 is awarded to students who do not file a PROFILE or do not demonstrate need; $1,000 to $2,000 is awarded to students with demonstrated need, using the results of the PROFILE. These scholarships are part of a student's total grant eligibility.

Methodist Ministerial Scholarships are awarded to children of active or deceased United Methodist ministers or missionaries and are valued at 45 percent of tuition. This award may be adjusted when combined with other tuition-specific awards. Applications are available in the Office of Financial Aid.

Courtesy Scholarships are available to eligible dependents of Emory faculty and staff. Depending upon an employee's length of service at Emory, the Courtesy Scholarship's value varies from half to full tuition less the amount of any other designated tuition awards. Students eligible for the Courtesy Scholarship who also receive Emory merit scholarships cannot receive Emory awards that exceed their Courtesy Scholarship eligibility. Courtesy Scholarships are applied prior to Emory merit scholarships. Contact Emory University human resources at 404.727.7613 or Emory Healthcare human resources at 404.712.4945 for a Courtesy Scholarship application.

Helpful Reminders When Applying for Need-based Financial Aid

If you are a First-Year Student or Transfer Applicant for fall:

1. Apply for admission to Emory College through the Office of Admission. Only admitted students are considered for financial aid, but you should not wait until you are admitted to apply for aid. (See pages 2–4.)
2. Complete the College Scholarship Service PROFILE and Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) by the appropriate deadlines on pages 2–4 of this booklet.
3. The Emory Office of Financial Aid requires copies of the parents' and student's complete federal tax forms, schedules, and W-2s. Applications are not considered complete and awards will not be made until tax returns are received. The receipt deadline for tax returns is April 1. Send documents by certified mail and retain receipts for verification of mailing date.
4. The Office of Admission will not grant extensions to the May 1 deposit deadline if applicants have not submitted the PROFILE, FAFSA, and required tax documents by the appropriate deadlines.
5. You may check the status of your financial aid application and your award letter online at www.opus.emory.edu.
6. When you are admitted to Emory College and your financial aid file is complete, the Office of Financial Aid will notify you of your financial aid eligibility by letter.

Acceptance and Renewal of Awards

Your final step in the admission and financial aid process, of course, is to decide which college or university you will attend. When comparing college costs and financial aid awards, keep in mind the total cost of an institution. Examine the details of scholarships, such as whether they are awarded for one year only or for four years. If May 1 is approaching and you have not received a financial aid award or if you have questions once you receive your financial aid award from Emory, this is an especially important time to call on the Emory financial aid and admission counselors.

Please let us know your final decision regarding Emory by either returning one copy of your award letter to the Office of Financial Aid with your signature, or by using OPUS to indicate whether or not you accept the award. You also must send the admission deposit to the Office of Admission, as explained in your acceptance letter. If you are a first-year regular-decision applicant for fall, we must receive this response by May 1, or we will withdraw your admission and award.

Commitments for all types of financial aid are for one academic year and are renewed based on continued eligibility and satisfactory academic progress. Scholarships based on merit generally do not require a second application. Financial aid based on need always requires a renewal application that demonstrates continuing need.* The PROFILE, FAFSA, and required tax documents must be filed by the published deadlines to be considered for renewal the following academic year.

*Changes in items such as cost of education, family size or number of children in college, family income, or assets may result in year-to-year fluctuations in your award.

Scholars Program (2007–2008 Academic Year)

www.emory.edu/college/students/scholars

Each year, Emory offers scholarships based on academic merit to a select group of incoming first-year students and invites them to join other outstanding Emory students as members of the Emory Scholars Program.

Recipients of the Emory Scholars awards are chosen entirely on the basis of merit. They receive scholarships renewable for four years of undergraduate study, provided they maintain high standards of personal and academic excellence. Through the Emory Scholars Program, they participate in enriched intellectual, cultural, and social programs throughout their college years.

Distinguished members of the faculty serve as program directors and advisers, helping the scholars to plan and execute their activities and facilitating their access to the academic and cultural opportunities of the University and the city of Atlanta. The University is pledged to enhance the lives of these Emory Scholars in every possible way.

Emory Scholars

The various Emory Scholars represent an impressive range of academic, cultural, and extracurricular interests and achievements. Most of the students have been National Merit finalists or semi-finalists, and almost all have won distinction—including national awards—in music, languages, science, mathematics, or other fields. They have held principal leadership offices in their secondary schools, served as editors of school newspapers and yearbooks, earned distinction in the performing arts, and played significant roles in community and volunteer programs.

There are tremendous benefits to being an Emory Scholar beyond the financial ones. The programs available to an Emory Scholar are as wide and diverse as the students involved. Through these programs, Emory Scholars develop not only their intellectual potential but increase their knowledge of the world and themselves. Emory Scholars have a legacy of learning and service.

Opportunities designed to create unity include a reimbursement program that enables an individual student to attend arts events on campus and beyond. Emory supplies tickets to on-campus and Atlanta arts events and other social events for scholars.

Emory Scholars receive priority registration and priority housing (after the first year). Every Scholar can apply for two summer programs. The Study Abroad Program pays the tuition of a summer semester for approximately fifteen to twenty Scholars' study abroad. The Scholarship and Service Program provides a living/learning environment in which fifteen to twenty Scholars live while working in local, community-based internships. Both programs are by application only.

Emory Scholars Selection

Candidates must be nominated by appropriate officials of their high schools. Nomination forms are mailed to high schools in the early fall. Schools interested in nominating students are encouraged to establish committees to select clearly distinguished candidates for these awards. As many as four candidates may be nominated by each school.

Emory Scholar nominees will be reviewed for all of Emory's merit-based awards (excluding MLK, Dean's Music, and Barkley Debate). If a student is selected as an Emory Scholar finalist, the committee will select the particular scholarship.

12 Candidates for the Emory Scholars Program must be nominated by their schools and must apply for admission by November 1. If attendance at Emory is contingent upon receiving a merit scholarship, do not choose an Early Decision option, since Emory Scholar selections occur in early April.

Emory Scholars Finalists Interviews

Finalists will be brought to Emory (at no expense to them) March 21–24, 2007, for activities designed to help them better acquaint themselves with programs and opportunities at Emory and for interviews designed to aid the Scholars Selection Committee in making its final choices for the various awards. Attendance is mandatory for all scholar finalists.

Other Emory Scholarships

The selection processes for the following scholarships are different from the general Emory Scholars Program described above. Once on campus, however, the following scholars are part of the Emory Scholars Program and enjoy the same intellectual, cultural, social, and registration opportunities as those described for scholars on pages 11–12.

Barkley Debate Scholars are chosen from accepted candidates for Emory's first-year class. (See page 17 for additional information.)

Dean's Music Scholarships are awarded each year to incoming first-year students who show exceptional promise in their applied areas of music. The awards cover half the cost of tuition. Students who wish to be considered for these scholarships must meet all admission requirements of Emory College, must plan to major in music, and must audition for the scholarships before February 1. No additional application is required. Scholarship recipients are notified in April. For more information about the awards or about the audition process go to www.emory.edu/MUSIC or call 404.727.6445.

Martin Luther King Jr. Scholarships are awarded in the amount of full tuition, fees, room, and board. Only applicants from Atlanta Public Schools are eligible for these awards. Interested students must be nominated by the appropriate officials at their high schools. Nomination forms are mailed to Atlanta Public Schools in early fall. As many as ten candidates may be nominated by each Atlanta Public School. Candidates for the Martin Luther King Jr. Scholarships must be nominated by their schools and must apply for admission by November 1. (See page 14 for additional information.)

All scholarships are awarded solely on the basis of merit, without regard to financial need, race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, age, disability, veteran/Reserve/National Guard status, or national origin. Recipients of merit scholarships may also receive other financial aid based on additional demonstrated need. The total aid from all sources may not exceed the cost of attendance. Individual scholarships are described in detail below. For those that provide full tuition, the award includes the cost of tuition for the current academic year minus any other awards that a student receives designated specifically for tuition.

Endowed Scholarships

Endowed scholarships are not separate from the Emory Scholars Program.

Ely R. Callaway Jr. Scholars

The Ely R. Callaway Jr. Scholarships honor a distinguished alumnus and supporter of Emory College. Aimed at bringing talented Georgians to Emory, the Ely R. Callaway Jr. Scholarships are awarded to young men and women from Georgia who have distinguished themselves by academic excellence, individual achievement, and service to their schools and communities during their secondary-school careers. Recipients are awarded a stipend equal to the cost of tuition and fees along with room and board.

Martin Luther King Jr. Scholars

The Martin Luther King Jr. Scholarships are awarded each year to outstanding students from the Atlanta Public Schools whose qualities of mind and spirit promise outstanding contributions to society. Scholarships are in the amount of full tuition and fees, room and board, and any additional need, as demonstrated by the College Scholarship Service PROFILE. Some alternates in the King competition are awarded the Benjamin E. Mays Scholarship, which carries with it two-thirds tuition. Interested students should seek nomination through their high school guidance/college counselor.

Robert W. Woodruff Scholars

The Robert W. Woodruff Scholarships bear the name of the renowned businessman and philanthropist who was head of The Coca-Cola Company for many years and was a peerless benefactor of Emory University. The scholarships are awarded to young men and women who have demonstrated qualities of forceful and unselfish character, intellectual and personal vigor, outstanding academic achievement, impressive skills in communication, significant leadership and creativity in school or community, and clear potential for enriching the lives of their contemporaries at Emory University. Woodruff Scholars participate in a significant program of cultural, intellectual, and social enrichment. Recipients of the Robert W. Woodruff Scholarships are awarded a stipend equal to the cost of full tuition and fees along with room and board.

The following endowed scholarships are awarded each year in the amount of full tuition and are renewable for four years of undergraduate study at Emory College.

Henry L. Bowden Scholars

The Bowden Scholarships honor an eminent graduate of Emory College who served for twenty years as chair of the University's Board of Trustees. Henry L. Bowden Scholarships are conferred on the basis of academic achievement, character, and leadership. Residents of the Southeast will be considered, with Georgia residents given priority.

Charles and Anne Duncan Scholars

Charles William Duncan Jr. of Houston, Texas, established this scholarship for gifted students residing west of the Mississippi River. One Duncan Scholarship is awarded each year, with priority given to residents of Texas and the Southwest.

Edward D. Smith Scholars

The Edward D. Smith Scholarship has been endowed in honor of an outstanding Emory College alumnus who became one of the South's leading bankers. The scholarship, which gives priority to an outstanding graduate of the Westminster Schools in Atlanta, commemorates Smith's devoted trusteeship of both Emory and Westminster. The Edward D. Smith Scholarship recognizes strong moral character, top academic achievement, and effective, unselfish service to others.

J. Pollard Turman Leadership Scholars

J. Pollard Turman, a native of Atlanta, was a member of Emory's family and a guiding force at the University for more than fifty years. Throughout his life, Turman was an influential humanitarian. His understanding and support of higher education, combined with his personal commitment, have benefited institutions throughout Georgia. The J. Pollard Turman Leadership Scholarship is awarded to incoming first-year students who show special leadership potential, as demonstrated by their personal commitment to service and excellence in school, civic, and other activities combined with sound academic achievement. Residents of the Southeast receive special consideration.

D. Abbott Turner Scholars

The D. Abbott Turner Scholarship is awarded each year to an exemplary graduate of a high school in Georgia. Preference is given first to graduates of the Brookstone School in Columbus and then to students who are natives of the Chattahoochee Valley. Turner Scholarships are awarded on the basis of character, achievement, and service.

Chris A. Yannopoulos Scholars

Endowed by Mr. and Mrs. Michael Carlos in the memory of Mrs. Carlos's son, the Chris A. Yannopoulos Scholarship is awarded to students who have demonstrated an interest in classical studies or who represent the strengths brought to the United States by immigrants.

College Scholarships

In addition to the endowed scholarships, the college honors a group of notable individuals by selecting scholarship recipients in their memory. Several of these scholarships are awarded in the amount of full tuition and are renewable for four years of undergraduate study.

The Flora Glenn Candler Scholarships

bear the name of the woman who proved to be Emory's greatest patron of the arts. Candler Scholars are recognized for their pursuit of excellence both in academics and the performing arts.

Deans Achievement Scholarships

in the amount of two-thirds tuition, are offered to a select group of Emory Scholar semifinalists who are not selected to advance as Emory Scholar finalists. The awards are renewable for the four undergraduate years as long as the student maintains a 3.2 cumulative grade point average or better.

The Ignatius Alphonso Few Scholarships

honor the founding president of Emory College. As early as 1832, he believed that the Methodists of Georgia should start a college to provide systematic education on the rather rough western frontier of the state. His efforts were rewarded when Emory was granted its charter in 1836, with Few as the first president.

The Augustus Baldwin Longstreet Scholarships

carry the name of Emory College's second president and the author of numerous sketches known collectively as Georgia Scenes, a celebrated piece of regional literature.

The Dumas Malone Scholarships

honor an Emory alumnus who is considered America's most accomplished biographer. From 1962 until his death in 1987, Malone was resident biographer at the University of Virginia. There he completed his Jefferson volumes, the fifth of which won the Pulitzer Prize in 1975, and the last of which he completed while totally blind.

The Kemp Malone Scholarships

bear the name of the 1911 Emory graduate who became known as the foremost American scholar of his generation to focus on Old English language and literature.

The Alexander Means Scholarships

carry the name of a multitalented scientist, physician, minister, and teacher who served as the fourth president of Emory College. In equal parts, he combined scientific, philosophic, and poetic temperaments.

The David M. Potter Scholarships

honor this Emory alumnus and winner of the Pulitzer Prize for history. His comprehensively researched and penetrating writings on the South and other subjects convinced many of Potter's colleagues that he may have been the greatest American historian of the mid-twentieth century.

The Jocelyn M. Taylor Scholars in Emory College

bear the name of a longtime member of the Emory College staff. Taylor came to Emory in 1962 as the chief staff person in the history department. During two decades, she served three deans as administrative assistant and also spent a brief period as administrative assistant for the philosophy department. For several years Taylor has coordinated the college Honors Program, annually shepherding honors candidates through the process from admission to the program to the completion of the honors thesis. This scholarship in her name honors Taylor's lifetime of exceptional and devoted service to Emory College and recognizes the all-important contributions that the staff of Emory College collectively makes to the fulfillment of the college's educational mission and the well-being of its students and faculty.
