WHERE THE SUN DOTTH SHINE,

'ROUND OLD EMORY'S SHRINE.

WE WILL EVER SING THY PRAISES,
SONS AND DAUGHTERS TRUE.
HAIL WE NOW OUR ALMA MATER,

THO' THE YEARS AROUND US GATHER,
CROWNED WITH LOVE AND CHEER,
STILL THE MEMORY OF OLD EMORY
GROWS TO US MORE DEAR.

PRESENTATION OF THE MARION LUTHER BRITTAIN SERVICE AWARD

This award, symbolic of all honors bestowed on students by the university, is an expression of gratitude for service performed without expectation of reward or recognition. The award was established at Emory in 1942 through a bequest from a distinguished Emory alumnus, former President Brittain of the Georgia Institute of Technology.

Megan Louise Light 14C

MEGAN LOUISE LIGHT, A SENIOR IN EMORY'S COLLEGE OF Arts and Sciences, has been named the 2014 Marion Luther Brittain Award recipient. Light is a candidate for the bachelor of arts degree in both anthropology and human biology. She has a minor in global health, culture, and society.

As a fully engaged and dedicated student-athlete, Light is a member of the Emory women's softball team. She has received conference player of the year, player of the year, All-American, and scholar-athlete honors. Light served as an administrative intern in the Global Health Action program that included research on the Left-Behind Children program in China and in the Cross-Cultural Solutions program in Hohoe, Ghana, and Atlanta. She also volunteered for the Resource and Insurance Navigator Group of Georgia that connected underserved populations in Georgia with insurance access and interned at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's Division of Global Migration and Quarantine study of global missionaries.

Light had the privilege of coaching women on the Maccabi USA softball team and served as part of the leadership team of Challah for the Hunger program for Sudan and Darfur relief.

PRESENTATION OF THE UNIVERSITY SCHOLAR/TEACHER AWARD

Chosen by the university president from nominations by the deans on behalf of the United Methodist Church Board of Higher Education and Ministry.

Abdullahi Ahmed An-Na'im
Charles Howard Candler Professor of Law

WITH LAW DEGREES FROM THE UNIVERSITY OF KHARTOUM and the University of Cambridge, and a PhD from the University of Edinburgh, Abdullahi Ahmed An-Na'im is an internationally recognized expert on Islam and human rights, comparative law, and human rights in cross-cultural perspectives. He teaches courses in the areas of human rights, Islamic law, and criminal law, and his research has ranged from the study of women's access to (and control over) land in seven African countries, to a global study of Islamic family law, to a fellowship program in Islam and human rights.

The central themes of An-Na'im's work arise from his experiences as a Muslim from Northern Sudan, struggling to reconcile his faith and identity with his commitment to universal respect for human rights. The explicitly personal nature of his scholarship has set his work apart and makes him a sought-after mentor, speaker, and instructor. Students are drawn to his classes because of his contagious enthusiasm for the subject and the care he takes to create a space for considering the complexities of religious and human rights.

At Emory, An-Na'im serves as senior fellow in the Center for the Study of Law and Religion, as associate professor in Emory College, and as director of the Islamic Legal Studies project. A prolific scholar, he has published six monographs and has authored or coauthored more than sixty articles and book chapters on human rights, constitutionalism, Islamic law, and politics.

The reach of An-Na'im's interdisciplinary influence extends far beyond Emory. He has been honored around the world by his peers, through distinguished visiting professorships, invitations to deliver named lectures, and a staggering number of awards and accolades.

An-Na'im reminds us that personal experiences can galvanize the academy as the foundation of rigorous scholarship and can bring about positive social change.

PRESENTATION OF THE THOMAS JEFFERSON AWARD

Awarded each year to a faculty member or administrative officer for significant service to the university through personal activities, influence, and leadership.

Carlos del Rio
Hubert Professor and Chair, Department of Global Health, Rollins School of Public Health; Professor of Medicine, Division of Infectious Diseases, School of Medicine

SERVICE IS THE HALLMARK OF CARLOS DEL RIO'S CAREER AND lies at the heart of his distinguished reputation—as a dedicated physician, a brilliant researcher, a beloved mentor, and an inspiring educator. His work sits at the intersection of public health and medicine, where he focuses on access and barriers to care among HIV-infected persons in hard-to-reach populations in the United States, as well as the impact of AIDS in developing countries and resource-poor settings. He serves as the program director of the Emory AIDS International Training and Research Program and as codirector of the Emory Center for AIDS Research (CFAR).

A native of Mexico, where he attended medical school at Universidad La Salle, del Rio had residencies in internal medicine and infectious diseases at Emory's School of Medicine. In 1989 he returned to his home country as executive director of the National AIDS Council of Mexico. In 1996 he rejoined Emory and has been involved in teaching and research ever since. Over the years, del Rio has served as chief of medicine at Grady Memorial Hospital, executive director of the Hope Clinic, and program director of the largest internal medicine residency program in the country.

Del Rio has coauthored five books, thirty book chapters, and more than one hundred and fifty scientific papers, in addition to serving on several editorial boards. Through active membership on countless committees, he has influenced AIDS policies and guided AIDS treatments and research, nationally and internationally. Last year, in recognition of his service to the medical community and his positive impact on global health, del Rio was elected to the Institute of Medicine, a singular honor accorded only to the most distinguished physicians and scientists.

As a powerful force for good in his areas of expertise, across the campus, and throughout the country, del Rio has improved and extended the lives of innumerable patients.

The following awards will be presented during the diploma ceremony at the school of each recipient.

Morgan 67OX 69B symbolically will authorize President Wagner to confer degrees upon the graduates, including the recipients of honorary degrees.

HONORARY DEGREES

BEN F. JOHNSON III 65C
*Son of Emory and Champion of Civil Society
Doctor of Laws, honoris causa*

ELECTED CHAIR OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF EMORY University in 2000, Ben Johnson is retired managing partner in the Atlanta law firm of Alston & Bird. After graduating from Emory College in 1965, he received a JD from Harvard University in 1968. He then returned to Atlanta to practice law before and after military service. His father, Ben F. Johnson Jr., attended Emory College, graduated from Emory School of Law, was on the law school faculty, and served as dean of the school. While at Emory College, Johnson participated in the Barkley Forum, chaired the College Honor Council, and was elected to the Phi Beta Kappa, Omicron Delta Kappa, and D.V.S. honor societies. He was president of the Interfraternity Council and of his own fraternity and at graduation received the Marion Luther Brittain Service Award. Johnson's distinguished community leadership includes service as board chair of Woodward Academy, the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra, and Invesco, as well as membership on the boards of The Carter Center and the Charles Loridans Foundation, among others. The American Lawyer awarded him its second Law Firm Distinguished Leader Award in its Lifetime Achievers 2010 issue.

His many activities as an alumnus include chairing The Coca-Cola Challenge and serving on the Board of Visitors. He was elected to the Emory Board of Trustees as an alumni trustee in 1995, was elected a term trustee in 2000, and was elected an emeritus trustee in 2013. As chair of Emory's Board of Trustees for thirteen years, Johnson oversaw governance of the university, helped to shape its leadership team, and tended to its long-range fiduciary health until stepping down in November 2013. As board chair, Johnson chaired the search committee that recommended appointment of Emory President James Wagner. During his tenure as chair, Emory developed a university-wide strategic plan and a campus master plan, and launched the most ambitious fund-raising campaign in Emory's history, raising $1.69 billion to support teaching, research, scholarship, patient care, and social action.

The Ben Johnson Scholarship Endowment was created in recognition of Johnson's eighteen years of service as well as the board's commitment to scholarship endowment.

Mr. Johnson will be presented by the dean of Emory School of Law Robert Schapiro.

BEVERLY DANIEL TATUM
*Psychologist and Spelman College President
Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa*

BEVERLY TATUM IS THE NINTH PRESIDENT OF SPELMAN COLLEGE. In addition to being an accomplished administrator, Tatum is widely recognized as a scholar, teacher, race-relations expert, and leader in higher education. Prior to her appointment to the Spelman presidency in 2002, she spent thirteen years at Mount Holyoke College, serving in various roles there as professor of psychology, department chair, dean of the college, and acting president. Prior to joining the Mount Holyoke faculty in 1989, Tatum was an associate professor and assistant professor of psychology at Westfield State College in Westfield, Massachusetts, and a lecturer in black studies at the University of California at Santa Barbara. Tatum is a clinical psychologist whose areas of research include black families in white communities, racial identity in teens, and the role of race in the classroom.

For more than twenty years, Tatum taught her signature course on the psychology of racism. She has also toured extensively, leading workshops on racial identity development and its impact in the classroom. Her latest book, Can We Talk about Race? And Other Conversations in an Era of School Resegregation, released in 2007, explores the social and educational implications of the growing racial isolation in public schools. In 2005, Tatum received the prestigious Brock International Prize in Education for her innovative leadership and in 2013 received the Carnegie Academic Leadership Award.

Actively involved in the Atlanta community, Tatum is a member of several boards, including the Executive Committee of the Metro Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; the Woodruff Arts Center; the Georgia Early Education Alliance for Ready Students; and the Atlanta Regional Council for Higher Education, which she chairs. HON. JOHN LEWIS
Congressman and Civil Rights Hero
Doctor of Laws, honoris causa

CONGRESSMAN JOHN LEWIS HAS DEDICATED HIS LIFE TO protecting human rights and securing civil liberties. While still a young man, Lewis became a nationally recognized leader and was dubbed one of the “Big Six” leaders of the national civil rights movement. At the age of twenty-three, he was an architect of and a keynote speaker at the historic March on Washington in August 1963. During the height of the civil rights movement, from 1963 to 1966, Lewis was named chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), which he helped form. SNCC was largely responsible for organizing nonviolent protests, including student sit-ins and other activities. He later served as director of the Voter Education Project, helping to register millions to vote.

In 1977, Lewis was appointed by President Jimmy Carter to direct more than 250,000 volunteers of the federal volunteer agency ACTION. In 1981, he was elected to the Atlanta City Council and in 1986 to the US Congress as representative of Georgia’s Fifth Congressional District. He is senior chief deputy whip for the Democratic Party in the House of Representatives and is a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, serving on subcommittees on oversight, income security, and family support.

Lewis is the coauthor of a No. 1 New York Times–bestselling graphic novel memoir trilogy MARCH. He is also the author of Across That Bridge: Life Lessons and a Vision for Change, winner of the 2012 NAACP Image Award for Best Literary Work-Biography. His autobiography is titled Walking with the Wind: A Memoir of the Movement. He is also the subject of two other books that were written about his life: Freedom Riders: John Lewis and Jim Zwerg on the Front Lines of the Civil Rights Movement, by Ann Bausum, and John Lewis in the Lead, by Jim Haskins and Kathleen Benson, with illustrations by famous Georgia artist Bennie Andrews.

Lewis is the recipient of numerous awards from national and international institutions, including the Medal of Freedom, the highest civilian honor granted by the United States. He has a BA in religion and philosophy from Fisk University and is a graduate of the American Baptist Theological Seminary.

Mr. Lewis will be presented by the dean of Emory School of Law Robert Schapiro.

EMORY COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES ORIGINATED FROM a concern for higher education in a Christian setting on the part of the Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Chartered in 1836 in Oxford, Georgia, the college was named after John Emory (1789–1835), bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1964 the college at Oxford was named Oxford College of Emory University.

Emory College became Emory University by virtue of a charter granted by the Superior Court of DeKalb County on January 25, 1915. Although classes on the Atlanta campus were begun in the schools of law and theology as early as 1916, the college did not move to Atlanta until 1919. The university now includes nine schools, most tracing their origins to years before the chartering of the university itself. These schools are Emory College and Oxford College (1836), the School of Medicine (1854), Nell Hodgson Woodruff School of Nursing (1905), Candler School of Theology (1914), the School of Law (1916), Roberto C. Goizueta Business School (1919), the James T. Laney School of Graduate Studies (1919), and Rollins School of Public Health (1990).

The intent of the founders is perpetuated by the university's vision statement: A destination university internationally recognized as an inquiry-driven, ethically engaged, and diverse community, whose members work collaboratively for positive transformation in the world through courageous leadership in teaching, research, scholarship, health care, and social action.

A SHORT HISTORY ON COMMENCEMENT AT EMORY

This is Emory's 169th commencement. The exercises witnessed today represent an imposition of medieval academic tradition on an institution that had its roots in the nineteenth-century frontier. The first Emory commencement was held in 1840, four years after Emory College had been chartered and two years after the college's first classes. That first ceremony, however, was without graduating students, as there were no graduates until the following year. Then, as now, sermons and addresses had a central focus in the exercises, though rarely have these addresses been so crucial as in 1849, when all fifteen members of the graduating class were assigned speaking places and spoke for as long as half an hour each.

Early commencement audiences sat for up to four hours in the midsummer heat to listen to the numerous student and faculty orations on such topics as "Our Government Unfavorable to High Attainment in Literature," "Social Equality," and "Modern Refinements." These addresses in the early days were in English, contrary to the practice at many other institutions. As President A. B. Longstreet argued in 1842, speeches in Latin and Greek were "worthy of the name pedantry, and nothing more." In spite of this advice, several later generations of students instructed their audiences in the ancient tongues.

ACADEMIC DRESS AND CUSTOMS

Academic dress goes back to the founding of European universities, which were the products of the intellectual revival of the twelfth century. All medieval students were clerks and consequently wore the dress of clergy. This is the academic costume we wear today, with certain changes introduced in the sixteenth century by Protestant reformers. The oldest articles of academic wear were the robe, over which was worn the habit, usually a kind of tunic with short, wide sleeves. The medieval hood was lined with fur or inexpensive skins and could be gathered around the neck or pulled up on the head as a turban. It is uncertain when different colors became associated with different degrees.

There were four kinds of caps: the round cap, reserved for doctoral dignity; the tena, a round cap with strings tied under the chin, worn by jurists; the square cap; and the Tudor bonnet. At Oxford University in 1565 the square cap became the norm, but the faculties that had become laicized adopted the Tudor bonnet that is still worn by doctoral candidates today. The basic design of all academic costume in the United States was first established in 1895 and was first used at Emory by the Class of 1902. The bachelor's gown features an embroidered Emory University seal in gold thread and has long, pointed, open sleeves. The master's gown has longer sleeves, which are closed at the bottom with openings about midway for the hands. Beginning in 2014, the bachelor's and master's gowns are made of fabric spun from molten plastic pellets from recycled water bottles. An average of twenty-three post-consumer plastic bottles are used to create each gown, furthering Emory's commitment to sustainability initiatives. The doctor's gown has full-length lapels of velvet and bell-shaped sleeves with three horizontal velvet bars. Tassels for bachelor's and master's caps are black; tassels of gold thread may be worn by doctors. Gowns and caps are usually black, although Emory and some other schools have specified that their doctors may wear gowns of distinctive colors. Yale's deep blue doctoral gown, Harvard's crimson, Columbia's dark blue, and Emory's blue and gold are a few that may be seen in the procession.

The hood varies for the respective degrees, the doctor's hood being longer and fuller than the master's. The field of study can be determined from the velvet facing on the hood according to the following color scheme: white, the arts; gold-yellow, science; purple, law; apricot, nursing; green, medicine; teal, physical therapy; scarlet, theology; salmon, public health; drab, business; and dark blue, doctors of philosophy. The hood is lined with silk in the colors of the degree-granting institution. For Emory graduates the lining is blue with a chevron of gold.

The president of Emory University wears a badge of office given to the university in 1965 by the Emory chapter, Gamma of Georgia, of Phi Beta Kappa. Designed by Eric Clements of Birmingham, England, and executed by the Worshipful Company of Goldsmiths in London, the solid gold badge is an open teardrop enclosing the raised seal of the university and is suspended on a gold chain.

The chief marshal and deputy marshals lead the academic procession. The faculty marshals and the secretary of the university jointly manage the forming of the procession, the seating of commencement participants, and the planning of other aspects of commencement exercises. Marshals are identified by their unique blue tunics, which are sleeveless and lined with gold.

The Quadrangle stage with blue canopy was named the University Marshals' Stage in honor of the dedication and service provided by Emory's chief marshals throughout history.

The university mace is carried in the procession by the immediate past president of the Student Government Association. Academically the mace is the symbol of a university as a corporate body of scholars possessing its own jurisdiction and its own legally constituted authority. Traditionally the mace is borne in procession immediately before the chief officer of a university and is placed before him or her during formal academic ceremonies.

The mace of Emory University, a gift from D.V.S., an Emory College senior honor society, was designed by Eric Clements and executed in silver and gold by the Worshipful Company of Goldsmiths. In the teardrop at the apex of the mace, against a background of oxidized silver, is a freestanding representation in gold of a human skeleton. This is Dooley, the "spirit" of Emory, who traditionally "rises" once each fall and for a week rules campus. Immediately below the skeleton, in an open teardrop, is a gold sphere divided (by stippling) into eight segments. Topping the sphere is a simple cross, symbolizing the relationship of Emory University to the Methodist church. The seal of the university is sculptured in gold within the circular base.

Before each school in the procession, the school's student marshal carries its gonfalon, a banner in the color associated with the respective school's degree: medicine, green; public health, salmon; nursing, apricot; theology, scarlet; law, purple; and business, drab. The gonfalon of the graduate school is gold representing Emory's gold, and the gonfalons of Emory College and Oxford College represent Emory's blue.

EMORY ALUMNI LEGACY MEDALLION

Graduating students who have a parent, grandparent, and/or sibling who is also an Emory graduate are wearing specially commissioned medallions hanging from blue and gold ribbons. The medallions are expressions of the university's gratitude to those families who have chosen to continue the Emory education tradition throughout the generations.

THE COMMENCEMENT SETTING

Spectators on the Quadrangle are seated facing Pitts Theology Library, one of the two oldest buildings on the Atlanta campus. Designed by the distinguished Pittsburgh architect Henry Hornbostel (1867–1961), Pitts Theology Library was the original theology building in 1916. It was renovated in 1975 by architect Paul Rudolph to house the expanded library collection of Candler School of Theology.

Directly behind the spectators are Carlos Hall, the other original campus building, and the expanded Michael C. Carlos Museum. Formerly home to the School of Law, Carlos Hall was renovated in 1986 according to a design by Michael Graves to house the museum and the Department of Art History. The museum is named for the philanthropist who donated most of the cost of the facility. It was designed to maintain the classic symmetry and proportion of the surrounding buildings, which are listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Bowden Hall, east of the museum, was constructed in 1951 in the same style as the original campus buildings. Originally the History Building, it was renamed in 1991 in honor of the late Henry L. Bowden, former chair of the Board of Trustees of Emory University. To the southeast of Bowden Hall is the Center for Library and Information Resources. The center joins the tall, red-tile-crowned Robert W. Woodruff Library and is linked to the Asa Griggs Candler Memorial Library at the east end of the Quadrangle. Candler Library was dedicated in 1926 in honor of the man who donated the land for the campus and who provided the university with strong leadership in its early years.

Next to Pitts Library is the Loula Walker and Ely Reeves Callaway Sr. Memorial Center. Thanks to a generous gift from alumnus Ely R. Callaway Jr. in honor of his parents, this center joins the former Humanities Building with the original Physics Building, which was constructed in 1919.

At the west end of the Quadrangle is the Administration Building (1955), a gift of Charles Howard Candler. Like his father, Asa, Charles chaired the Board of Trustees for many years. Between the Administration Building and Pitts Library sits the more modern White Hall, the main classroom building of Emory College. Above the trees of the north side of the Quadrangle are the curved red roof of the William R. Cannon Chapel—designed by Paul Rudolph and dedicated in 1981—and the towers of Emory University Hospital to the east.
