2009 Award of Distinction

The Emory University Award of Distinction Program recognizes nominated individuals for their “contributory excellence.” Through their initiative, innovation, and leadership, they help further our vision as a “destination university.” This year’s honorees will be recognized on April 7 at a dinner hosted by President Wagner and will receive a $1000 award.

Congratulations to the 2009 Emory University Award of Distinction recipients:

“Green” Your Routine

Have you been wondering what you can do at home or at Emory to become more sustainable? Pledge to make a difference by committing to make at least three changes in your daily habits or routine through Emory’s online personal sustainability pledge.

From conserving water to promoting alternative transportation to encouraging the production and consumption of locally- or sustainably-grown foods on campus, Emory has committed to achieving greater sustainability.

Emory’s sustainability vision will only be achieved if the entire Emory community is engaged, so its employees, students and faculty are being asked to ‘do their part’ to help by completing the online sustainability pledge and then sending an email encouraging three friends to complete the pledge as well.

The pledge can be found on the Office of Sustainability Initiatives (OSI) website (www.sustainability.emory.edu/pledge) and the Emory community is invited to commit their efforts to address energy, sustainable food, water conservation, protecting green space, recycling and other sustainable issues.

Users are asked to select and commit to three new sustainable activities from a list of options. If you are currently participating in sustainable endeavors on campus, OSI wants to know about those as well.

“The University has identified sustainability as one of its top priorities, and appreciates the thoughtful commitment we currently receive from the Emory community,” said Ciannat Howett, Emory’s director of sustainability initiatives. “The online pledge is another way for employees, students and faculty to visibly demonstrate their support of sustainability and promote one of the University’s essential objectives that affects everyone on campus and in the community.”

Think the sustainability pledge is similar to a New Year’s Resolution and is only thought about once a year? Think again. Once a commitment is made, the user can renew the pledge each semester by updating their promise as needed. The user can also spread the word about the pledge by identifying friends, colleagues or acquaintances that would ‘follow the leader’ and commit to three actions to help Emory become a more sustainable campus.

“It’s going to take the active participation of the entire Emory community to pitch in, turn off, conserve and re-evaluate daily habits for Emory to realize its vision,” said Howett.

With the help of its faculty, staff and students, Emory can help restore the global ecosystem, foster healthy living and reduce the University’s impact on the local environment. Pledge to do your part.

Child Care Network

Emory's WorkLife Resource Center Adds Two New Providers

In addition to the discounts already being offered by all metro Atlanta Kindercare locations, the WorkLife Resource Center has established a 10% discount with most of the Goddard Schools located throughout Atlanta and a 5% discount with FIO 360, a state of the art child care facility located in Atlantic Station.

The Goddard School - www.goddardschool.com

Twenty of the 23 metro Atlanta Goddard Schools will be offering a 10% discount to employees and students of Emory. Six of the twenty centers are NAEYC accredited. The Goddard School is a preschool for children ages 6 weeks to 8 years old. They offer full and half-day programs for infant, toddler, preschool, Pre-K, after-school and summer camp. All centers offer a proprietary curriculum that allows teachers to create their own lesson plans that follow monthly themes. The Goddard School's philosophy is dedicated to providing the foundation to encourage each child's lifelong love of learning in a safe and nurturing environment. Owners and directors are actively involved with both children and their parents.

FIO 360 - www.fo360.com

This eco-early care and learning center provides consistent, loving care to children ages 6 weeks through preschool. FIO 360 is focused on providing great beginnings to build self-esteem, develop school competence, and reach for higher levels of learning in a nurturing, earth friendly environment. By implementing the European Pyramid approach to learning each child is well prepared to meet the challenges of our ever changing world. Private tours are always available.

If you are currently using a provider in the Emory Child Care Network and have not been receiving the discount offer, please speak to your center director. If you need additional assistance, please contact Audrey Adelson, Dependent Care Program Specialist with the Emory WorkLife Resource Center at 404-727-1261 or audrey.adelson@emory.edu.

REMINDER:

The Emory WorkLife Resource Center is now offering a Summer Camp Directory available online at www.hr.emory.edu. Please note that you will be required to login using your Emory Net ID and password.

Emory Pre-College Program for High School Students

This summer Emory College of Arts and Sciences is pleased to offer the 2009 Pre-College Program for high school students. This program allows talented rising high school juniors and seniors to experience Emory's distinctive academic and residential community.

Students may enhance their academic portfolio and earn college credit in six-week undergraduate courses or enroll in two-week non-credit courses for personal enrichment. All classes are taught by committed Emory faculty who enjoy teaching and guiding prospective college students.

Summer can be both fun and academically focused for your high school student.

- Six- week credit courses: Biology · Economics · Mathematics · Film Studies · Languages · Theater Studies · Social Sciences · Visual Arts and more
- Two-week non-credit courses: English Literature · Dance · Music · Nanomaterials · Neuroscience · Photography · Psychology · Public Health · Shakespeare

Visit www.college.emory.edu/pre-college to learn more about the Pre-College Program.

Emory Summer School for Visiting College Students

Emory College of Arts and Sciences offers two convenient six-week Summer School sessions for current undergraduate students:

Session 1: May 18 — June 26, 2009

Session 2: June 29 — August 7, 2009

Emory welcomes students from other institutions who are seeking credit. More than one hundred undergraduate courses are available during the summer session and course credits are transferable. Many students take advantage of the summer sessions to enroll in required courses that will fulfill degree requirements at their home institution.

Visit www.college.emory.edu/summer for information for visiting students.
