Publications

Books

- 2019 Of Stories and Beautiful Things. The book collects several completed papers based on rhetoric and various computational and data visualization tools applied to different datasets. Submitted to Routledge. Very interested. They are checking to see how to print in color.
- 2017 Tropes and Figures. Landmark Essays. New York: Routledge. The book includes 12 previously published articles or book chapters on rhetorical tropes and figures written by different scholar and a 9,000-word introduction to the volume written by the author.
- Accepted Trilogy of Rhetoric: Rhetorical Foundations of Social Science Methodology. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press. The book is structured in three main chapters, each dealing with different social science methodologies of textual analysis: content analysis, frame analysis, and quantitative narrative analysis.
- 2010 Quantitative Narrative Analysis (Quantitative Applications in the Social Sciences). Beverly Hills, CA: Sage.
- 2008 Content Analysis (Benchmarks in Social Research Methods series). 4 vols. Thousand Oaks, CA: Sage.
- 2004 From Words to Numbers: Narrative, Data, and Social Science. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press. Pp. 504.
- 1995 The Puzzle of Strikes: Class and State Strategies in Postwar Italy. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press. Pp. 528.
- Chapter 8, “Mobilization and Counter-Mobilization Processes: the 1969 autunno caldo in Italy and its Aftermath,” partly reprinted as “L’automne chaud italien de 1969” in Regards Sociologiques (France), No. 12, pp. 32–49. 1997.
- Chapter 9, “The Picture in the Puzzle,” reprinted in: pp. 189–209, John E. Kelly (ed.), Industrial Relations: Critical Perspectives on Business and Management. 5 Vols. Volume IV: Worker Representation and Labour-Management Relations. London: Routledge. 2002.
- 1994 Il gioco delle parti: attori e azioni nei conflitti di lavoro. Rome: SIPI.

Books in Fieri

The collection of thousands of newspaper articles on various aspects of racial violence in Georgia is complete. Just about complete is also the development of all the Natural Language Processing tools required to analyze this vast body of evidence.

Only Another Negro: Racial Violence in Georgia (1875-1935). In twelve chapters, the book tackles the issue of racial violence in historical perspective (1875-1930) in the state of Georgia, in the US South. From the rarer lynchings, to the unique 1906 Atlanta race riot, to every-day, ordinary whippings of African Americans, the book tells the story of how Southern whites maintained their economic, political, and social supremacy after emancipation, often through violence. The book draws upon a wealth of historical evidence: over 4,000 newspaper articles on events of lynching and whipping, newspaper editorials, books, and pamphlets on issues of race, census records, archival material, court records, photographs of lynchings, comments left by visitors at the 2002 exhibit of lynching photographs at the Martin Luther King Museum in Atlanta, Georgia. This material is handled through a large variety of methodological tools: Quantitative Narrative Analysis (QNA), a technique of textual analysis developed by the author that extracts from narratives detailed information about the Who, the What, When, Where, Why, and How; Natural Language Processing tools aimed at finding patterns in textual data; Geographic Information System (GIS) analysis aimed at mapping the location of events; network analysis aimed at mapping the relation among actors around specific spheres of action. Results are mostly presented visually: charts, network graphs, geographic maps, word clouds.

The research project behind the book will also result in three different historical digital humanities websites.

The following two book projects are ideas with a great deal of notes.

Closing Circles: Of Metaphors and Metonymies. The book is structured in three main chapters, each dealing with different aspects of Quantitative Narrative Analysis. The plot structure of each chapter leads the chapter to end where it started, closing a circle (Goethe-Propp-Goethe; Greimas-Latour-Greimas, Erasmus-Greimas-Erasmus). More broadly, the book deals with ways on knowing: metaphoric or metonymic.

Triptych: Portraits of Art and Science. An excursus in the history of science and the relation between art and science, natural sciences and the social sciences focused on the figures of Galileo, Newton, Goethe, Simmel, and Weber.

Software Development

1996-2017      PC-ACE (Program for Computer-Assisted Coding of Events).

In 2017, PC-ACE development was abandoned. PC-ACE is based on Microsoft Access, which does not work on a Mac operating system, the kind of laptop most students now have. Furthermore, the propriety code for some core routines expires every six months and then it is very difficult to reinstate.

PC-ACE can be downloaded at www.pc-ace.com although it is no longer supported. PC-ACE last release was v.834, with 2 or 3 new releases a year. The website was created in March 2016. Some 200,000 lines of VBA and Java code, over 150 TIPS files, nearly 40 YouTube video tutorials. The v.834 release also had some NLP (Natural Language Processing) capabilities.

2017-2020      NLP Suite

In the Spring 2018, I embarked upon a new approach to textual analysis no longer based on computer-assisted tools but on computer-automated tools under the banner of Natural Language Processing (NLP). The NLP Suite package has been publicly available under GitHub since the Spring 2021 at <https://github.com/NLP-Suite/NLP-Suite>.

The NLP Suite is a package of Natural Language Processing (NLP) tools, complete with extensive file- and data handling capabilities and automatic data visualization (in Gephi for network graphs, Google Earth Pro for maps, Excel for charts with hover-over effects). The current release of April 2022 includes:

2 Java files

174 Python files with hundreds of functions

154 help TIPS files.
The TIPS complement, with far more extensive explanations, the online HELP, ReadMe, videos, and reminder messages available for each GUI.

Digital Scholarship

Lynchings in Georgia (1875-1930) Website.

The website, provisionally housed at <http://dev.emorydisc.org/galyn/> was prepared under a Mellon Foundation Digital Humanities Scholarship award. The website contains over 1,000 original newspaper articles on some 500 lynchings that occurred in Georgia between 1875 and 1930. The website displays GIS maps with timelines and network graphs.

1906 Atlanta Race Riot Website.

The project maps on a 1906 geocoded map of Atlanta every act of violence perpetrated by white mobs against blacks during the days of the riot (Saturday September 22 through Monday 24). The website will make available hundreds of newspaper articles on the events. It will allow site visitors to analyze and visualize the words used in both editorials and news articles through Natural Language Processing (NLP) tools. It will display network graphs of the relations of violence between actors. Finally, it will allow visitors to bring up the available historical records of the victims of violence for whom names are known.

Georgia Historical Newspapers (1875-1940) Website.

The project maps on a map of Georgia all known Georgia historical newspapers, both white and African American. It will provide a timeline of these newspapers and basic information about the papers.
