Resources for Sexual Health and Pleasure

Online
Finding reliable and factual information on the internet can be as difficult as finding the right partner! Here are some reputable links for further information. Though some of these sites are designed for teens, this info doesn’t expire when you turn 20!

- iwannaknow.org http://www.iwannaknow.org
- It’s Your (Sex) Life http://www.itsyoursexlife.com
- SEX, etc. http://www.sxetc.org/
- TeenWire http://www.teenwire.com
- Emergency Contraception Hotline, 1-888-not-2-late and http://www.not-2-late.com

Specifically about communication:

- http://www.plannedparenthood.org/bc/Condom.htm#Script
- http://www.sextalk.org/sexed_talking.shtm
- http://www.safersex.org/sssex/talksmart/

On Campus

- Emory University Student Health Services (EUSHS) provides exams, info sessions, contraception prescriptions, emergency contraception, STI tests, HIV tests, sexual health counseling and many other services. Staff there can help you navigate your insurance coverage to make prescriptions and services as low-cost and confidential as possible - just ask!
  - EUSHS, 404-727-7551 or online at www.emory.edu/SHS
  - To read more about our services, visit us online at http://www.emory.edu/UHS/ and check out the “Sexual Health FAQs” section in the A-Z part of our website.
  - Shirley Banks, Health Educator, 404-727-7312, shirley.banks@emory.edu

© 8/2006 Emory University Student Health Services, Health Education and Promotion