PRESENTATION OF THE
MARION LUTHER BRITTAIN SERVICE AWARD

This award, symbolic of all honors bestowed on students by the university, is an expression of gratitude for service performed without expectation of reward or recognition. The award was established at Emory in 1942 through a bequest from a distinguished Emory alumnus, former President Brittain of the Georgia Institute of Technology. The Brittain Award is presented annually to two students, one each representing Emory's undergraduate and graduate student bodies.

KAITLYN MARIE POSA 17C
Undergraduate Recipient

KAITLYN MARIE POSA, A GRADUATING SENIOR MAJORING IN English and psychology, has been named the 2017 undergraduate recipient of the university's highest student honor, the Marion Luther Brittain Award, recognizing meritorious service to the institution.

Posa's long-held interest in human rights deepened the summer of her sophomore year, while she was interning at the human rights consulting firm Grieboski Global Strategies and working with international organizations and foreign nations to improve human rights.

Upon her return to Emory junior year, she sought to increase awareness on campus of international religious persecution, as well as of the topics and difficulties that unite different faiths across the globe. She created and organized the Interfaith Panel on Religious Persecution, working with the Aquinas Center of Theology Board to bring together an expert from Washington, D. C., and the representatives of several religious traditions to discuss the disturbing rise of religious persecution. Offering respectful interfaith debate and discussion, the panel served to increase tolerance, compassion, and understanding.

During her years at Emory, Posa served as president of the Catholic Student Union; as a member of the Board of Directors of the Aquinas Center of Theology at Emory; and as editor-in-chief for the international affairs journal, the Emory Globe. Through these roles, she aimed to unite people across difficult ecumenical and interfaith boundaries, and shine a light on the importance of religious freedom.

With international affairs as her guiding passion, she plans to study international law and continue her work promoting religious freedom.

JARED LEIGH GREENBAUM 17B
Graduate Recipient

JARED LEIGH GREENBAUM, A GRADUATING MBA CANDIDATE IN Goizueta Business School, has been named the 2017 graduate recipient of the Marion Luther Brittain Service Award. Greenbaum is a 2011 graduate of Skidmore College, from which he received a bachelor of science in arts administration.

Called the "living embodiment" of Goizueta's core values, as Graduate Student Government Association president, Greenbaum helped lead dialogues about, voting for, and implementation of this year's SGA/GSGA restructure. This comprehensive plan created two equal and autonomous governing bodies for undergraduate and graduate students, an undertaking that sought to modernize a decades-old student governance structure at Emory. To ensure his solution effectively represented the entire student body, Greenbaum conducted a listening tour throughout the Emory community, meeting with students and administrators in each of Emory's schools and colleges to discuss the implications of bifurcation.

He authored the strategic implementation plan that helped Emory's 7,800 undergraduate and 7,200 graduate students usher in this pivotal moment in SGA/GSGA history, and 91.2 percent of students voted in favor of the historic restructure.

Greenbaum has served the Emory community with great passion, not just as GSGA president but also as a graduate business representative to SGA, an MBA admissions ambassador, a Graduate Business Association vice president, a Delta Leadership Coaching Fellow, and a teaching assistant. He also led Goizueta's 2016 admitted students weekend, one of the most successful to date.

After graduation, Greenbaum plans to return to Los Angeles and his career in the television and film industry.

PRESENTATION OF THE
UNIVERSITY SCHOLAR/TEACHER AWARD

Chosen by the university president from nominations by the deans on behalf of the United Methodist Church Board of Higher Education and Ministry.

CAROL ANDERSON
*Chair, Department of African American Studies
Charles Howard Candler Professor of African American Studies
Emory College of Arts and Sciences*

THE VERY MODEL OF WHAT THIS HONOR CELEBRATES, Carol Anderson artfully expresses the organic relationship that inheres in simultaneous roles as professor, scholar, and public intellectual.

Anderson has achieved international renown for her work as a historian of diplomatic history, human and civil rights history, and the history of the Atlantic world. Her first book, Eyes Off the Prize: The United Nations and the African American Struggle for Human Rights, 1944–1955, won two book prizes and was a finalist for two others. Her second book, Bourgeois Radicals: The NAACP and the Struggle for Colonial Liberation, 1941–1960, is generating similar acclaim.

A respected public intellectual, Anderson published a landmark op-ed in the Washington Post titled "White Rage." It was the paper's most shared article for 2014, and it galvanized national conversation in the wake of the police shooting in Ferguson, Missouri, and similar incidents elsewhere. The public's engagement with the article was so extensive that a publisher approached Anderson to write the book that the article demanded, and thus White Rage: The Unspoken Truth of Our Racial Divide has gained the attention of the nation and won the 2016 National Book Critics Circle award.

Anderson's rigorous and prescient scholarship blends with a teaching style that is passionate, challenging, and thoroughly engaged. A strong mentor and teacher, Anderson's influence on her students is clear in the numerous teaching awards she has received, to say nothing of the course evaluations and testimonials from students inspired by the high bar she has set. Beyond the considerable energy that she gives her students and department, Anderson is also a committed citizen of Emory, serving on countless Emory College and university committees, including co-chairing the search for Emory's next provost.

PRESENTATION OF THE THOMAS JEFFERSON AWARD

Awarded each year to a faculty member or administrative officer for significant service to the university through personal activities, influence, and leadership.

CAROL J. ROWLAND HOGUE
*Jules and Uldeen Terry Professor of Maternal and Child Health
Professor of Epidemiology
Rollins School of Public Health*

A LIFELONG PASSION HAS DRIVEN CAROL HOGUE TO PREPARE the best possible scientists to improve the health of women and children and to eliminate the health inequities that lead minority women and children to die prematurely.

Emory's Rollins School of Public Health recruited Hogue in 1992 from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, where—as the division director of Reproductive Health—she pioneered the first epidemiologic surveillance of maternal morbidities and innovative research on racial disparities in preterm delivery. Hogue was named to the first endowed professorship awarded at Rollins, where she established and has led the Women's and Children's Center for the past twenty-five years.

Her contributions to Emory's intellectual and civic life are legion. She was a member of the Templeton Foundation—sponsored faculty dialogues on science and religion, a Gustafson Scholar, and a Senior Fellow of the Emory Center for the Study of Law and Religion. Hogue was a co-chair, and now member, of the Executive Committee of the Religion and Public Health Collaborative, which has built on Emory's unique strengths in these areas.

Holding joint appointments in the School of Medicine, Emory College, and Rollins, Hogue has served on Emory's Faculty Council, the provost's Faculty Advisory Committee, and the Faculty Advisory Committee of the Laney Graduate School. When the Board of Trustees invited faculty to serve as counselors, Hogue was among the first chosen.

Among many honors, Hogue served as president of both the Society for Epidemiologic Research and the American College of Epidemiology, and in 2016 she received the MCH Epidemiology Coalition's Greg Alexander Award for Advancing Knowledge—Advancing Public Health through Epidemiology and Applied Research.

The following awards will be presented during the diploma ceremony at the school of each recipient.

THE EMORY WILLIAMS AWARDS FOR DISTINGUISHED TEACHING

The university's oldest awards for teaching were established in 1972 by alumnus Emory Williams 32C. Awards in the arts and sciences are determined by a committee of Emory College faculty. Emory College gives three of these awards each year, while the other schools of the university each give one award.

HONORARY DEGREES

TAYLOR BRANCH
Historian and Author
Doctor of Letters, honoris causa

TAYLOR BRANCH, A NATIVE OF ATLANTA, IS BEST KNOWN FOR his landmark narrative history of the civil rights era, America in the King Years. The first book in the trilogy, Parting the Waters: America in the King Years, 1954–63, won the Pulitzer Prize and numerous other awards in 1989. Two successive volumes also gained critical and popular success: Pillar of Fire: America in the King Years, 1963–65, and At Canaan's Edge: America in the King Years, 1965–68.

Branch returned to civil rights history in his latest book, The King Years: Historic Moments in the Civil Rights Movement (2013). In this work, Branch presents eighteen key episodes across the full span of the era, selected and knitted together in language from the trilogy, with new introductions for each chapter.

In 2009 he published The Clinton Tapes: Wrestling History with the President. Far more personal than Branch's previous books, this memoir tells of an unprecedented eight-year project to gather a sitting president's comprehensive oral history on tape, and reveals a president up close and unguarded.

In the October 2011 issue of the Atlantic, Branch published an influential cover story titled "The Shame of College Sports," which author and National Public Radio commentator Frank Deford said "may well be the most important article ever written about college sports." In that article Branch opened a window into the moral and financial costs of big-time Division I athletics.

Aside from writing, Branch speaks before a variety of audiences—colleges, high schools, churches, synagogues, mosques, and political and professional groups. In November 2016, alongside featured soloist Jessye Norman, he was a principal narrator in the Atlanta Music Festival. This longstanding tradition, now cosponsored by Emory, harks back more than a century to the city's earliest efforts to heal racial divisions through the arts.

Branch began his career in 1970 as a staff journalist for the Washington Monthly, Harper's, and Esquire. He has been recognized with the Dayton Literary Peace Prize Lifetime Achievement Award in 2008 and the National Humanities Medal in 1999.

Mr. Branch will be presented by the interim dean of Emory College, Michael Elliott.

SARAH BLAFFER HRDY
Anthropologist and Primatologist
Doctor of Science, honoris causa

SARAH BLAFFER HRDY HAS REVOLUTIONIZED THE THINKING OF primatologists and anthropologists about the nature of Darwinian processes in evolution and has played a pivotal role in the establishment of sociobiology as a discipline. Hrdy's groundbreaking work provides an account of human behavior that focuses on the positive and important contribution of cooperation in childcare.

After graduating from Radcliffe College, Hrdy earned her doctorate in anthropology from Harvard University in 1975 and is now professor emerita at the University of California, Davis. Her five books include The Langurs of Abu: Female and Male Strategies of Reproduction (1977), the first book to examine the reproductive strategies of nonhuman primates from the perspective of both sexes; The Woman That Never Evolved (1981, new edition 1999), selected by the New York Times as one of the notable books of the year; and Mother Nature: A History of Mothers, Infants, and Natural Selection (1999), which won the Howells Prize for Outstanding Contribution to Biological Anthropology and was chosen by both Publisher's Weekly and Library Journal as one of the best books of 1999. Her latest work, Mothers and Others: The Evolutionary Origins of Mutual Understanding (2009), explores the cognitive and emotional implications of humankind's long legacy of shared child-rearing.

A former Guggenheim fellow, Hrdy has been elected to the California Academy of Sciences, the National Academy of Sciences, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and the American Philosophical Society. In 2014 she was chosen by the National Academy of Sciences to receive the Award for Scientific Reviewing for her "insightful and visionary synthesis" of social and biological sciences to illuminate the ways mothers, infants, and others help form human societies.

A mother and grandmother, she lives in Northern California, where she and her husband combine habitat restoration with growing walnuts. Hrdy also has a strong and longstanding interest in the work at Emory's Yerkes National Primate Research Center.

Dr. Hrdy will be presented by the dean of the Laney Graduate School, Lisa Tedesco.

CLAES TINGVALL
Epidemiologist and Safety Pioneer
Doctor of Science, honoris causa

CLAES TINGVALL IS A SWEDISH EPIDEMIOLOGIST WITH A PHD IN medical science from Karolinska Institute. He is also adjunct professor at Chalmers University of Technology in Sweden, as well as adjunct professor at Monash University in Melbourne, Australia. Tingvall retired in 2015 from the position as director of traffic safety at the Swedish Transport Administration and continues to serve as senior consultant at ÅF Technical consultants in Sweden.

Author of more than 150 scientific articles, Tingvall is a world-leading expert in injury epidemiology, safety rating, and safety management. At Swedish Transport Administration, Tingvall led in developing the policy of Vision Zero, the goal of which was a road transport system free of death and serious injury resulting from road crashes. Vision Zero was presented in 1995 and adopted by the Swedish Parliament in 1997. Since then, the vision has been adopted worldwide, including in the United States since 2016. Tingvall has also been chair of the board of Euro NCAP, the rating system for new car safety in Europe. He has also chaired ISO39001, the first global standard for safety management of road transport systems.

In 2014, Tingvall was awarded the Gold Medal from the Royal Swedish Academy of Engineering Sciences, and he has received the Award of Merit from the American Association for the Advancement of Automotive Medicine.

Working closely with the Task Force for Global Health, an affiliate of Emory University, Tingvall has helped raise the global road safety crisis to a priority for the United Nations. His work was inspired by William Foege, Emory Presidential Distinguished Professor Emeritus and renowned epidemiologist. Tingvall also serves as a board member of the Towards Zero Foundation, whose objectives are to promote the Vision Zero goals, support the aims of the UN decade of action for road safety (2011–2020), promote international cooperation and recommendations on road safety, and encourage road injury prevention internationally.

Dr. Tingvall will be presented by the dean of the Rollins School of Public Health, James Curran.

EMORY COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES ORIGINATED FROM a concern for higher education in a Christian setting on the part of the Georgia Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Chartered in 1836 in Oxford, Georgia, the college was named after John Emory (1789–1835), bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1964 the college at Oxford was named Oxford College of Emory University.

Emory College became Emory University by virtue of a charter granted by the Superior Court of DeKalb County on January 25, 1915. Although classes on the Atlanta campus were begun in the schools of law and theology as early as 1916, the college did not move to Atlanta until 1919. The university now includes nine schools, most tracing their origins to years before the chartering of the university itself. These schools are Emory College and Oxford College (1836), the School of Medicine (1854), Nell Hodgson Woodruff School of Nursing (1905), Candler School of Theology (1914), the School of Law (1916), Roberto C. Goizueta Business School (1919), the James T. Laney School of Graduate Studies (1919), and Rollins School of Public Health (1990).

The intent of the founders is perpetuated by the university's vision statement: A destination university internationally recognized as an inquiry-driven, ethically engaged, and diverse community, whose members work collaboratively for positive transformation in the world through courageous leadership in teaching, research, scholarship, health care, and social action.

A SHORT HISTORY OF COMMENCEMENT AT EMORY

This is Emory's 172nd commencement. The exercises witnessed today represent an imposition of medieval academic tradition on an institution that had its roots in the nineteenth-century frontier. The first Emory commencement was held in 1840, four years after Emory College had been chartered and two years after the college's first classes. That first ceremony, however, was without graduating students, as there were no graduates until the following year. Then, as now, sermons and addresses had a central focus in the exercises, though rarely have these addresses been so crucial as in 1849, when all fifteen members of the graduating class were assigned speaking places and spoke for as long as half an hour each.

Early commencement audiences sat for up to four hours in the midsummer heat to listen to the numerous student and faculty orations on such topics as "Our Government Unfavorable to High Attainment in Literature," "Social Equality," and "Modern Refinements." These addresses in the early days were in English, contrary to the practice at many other institutions. As President A. B. Longstreet argued in 1842, speeches in Latin and Greek were "worthy of the name pedantry, and nothing more." In spite of this advice, several later generations of students instructed their audiences in the ancient tongues.

ACADEMIC DRESS AND CUSTOMS

Academic dress goes back to the founding of European universities, which were the products of the intellectual revival of the twelfth century. All medieval students were clerks and consequently wore the dress of clergy. This is the academic costume we wear today, with certain changes introduced in the sixteenth century by Protestant reformers. The oldest articles of academic wear were the robe, over which was worn the habit, usually a kind of tunic with short, wide sleeves. The medieval hood was lined with fur or inexpensive skins and could be gathered around the neck or pulled up on the head as a turban. It is uncertain when different colors became associated with different degrees.

There were four kinds of caps: the round cap, reserved for doctoral dignity; the tena, a round cap with strings tied under the chin, worn by jurists; the square cap; and the Tudor bonnet. At Oxford University in 1565 the square cap became the norm, but the faculties that had become laicized adopted the Tudor bonnet that is still worn by doctoral candidates today. The basic design of all academic costume in the United States was first established in 1895 and was first used at Emory by the Class of 1902. The bachelor's gown features an embroidered Emory University seal in gold thread and has long, pointed, open sleeves. The master's gown has longer sleeves, which are closed at the bottom with openings about midway for the hands. Beginning in 2014, the bachelor's and master's gowns are made of fabric spun from molten plastic pellets from recycled water bottles. An average of twenty-three post-consumer plastic bottles are used to create each gown, furthering Emory's commitment to sustainability initiatives. The doctor's gown has full-length lapels of velvet and bell-shaped sleeves with three horizontal velvet bars. Tassels for bachelor's and master's caps are black; tassels of gold thread may be worn by doctors. Gowns and caps are usually black, although Emory and some other schools have specified that their doctors may wear gowns of distinctive colors. Yale's deep blue doctoral gown, Harvard's crimson, Columbia's dark blue, and Emory's blue and gold are a few that may be seen in the procession.

The hood varies for the respective degrees, the doctor's hood being longer and fuller than the master's. The field of study can be determined from the velvet facing on the hood according to the following color scheme: white, the arts; gold-yellow, science; purple, law; apricot, nursing; green, medicine; teal, physical therapy; scarlet, theology; salmon, public health; drab, business; and dark blue, doctors of philosophy. The hood is lined with silk in the colors of the degree-granting institution. For Emory graduates the lining is blue with a chevron of gold.

The president of Emory University wears a badge of office given to the university in 1965 by the Emory chapter, Gamma of Georgia, of Phi Beta Kappa. Designed by Eric Clements of Birmingham, England, and executed by the Worshipful Company of Goldsmiths in London, the solid gold badge is an open teardrop enclosing the raised seal of the university and is suspended on a gold chain.

The chief marshal and deputy marshals lead the academic procession. The faculty marshals and the secretary of the university jointly manage the forming of the procession, the seating of commencement participants, and the planning of other aspects of commencement exercises. Marshals are identified by their unique blue tunics, which are sleeveless and lined with gold.

The Quadrangle stage with blue canopy was named the University Marshals' Stage in honor of the dedication and service provided by Emory's chief marshals throughout history.

The university mace is carried in the procession by the immediate past president of the Student Government Association. Academically the mace is the symbol of a university as a corporate body of scholars possessing its own jurisdiction and its own legally constituted authority. Traditionally the mace is borne in procession immediately before the chief officer of a university and is placed before her or him during formal academic ceremonies.

The mace of Emory University, a gift from D.V.S., an Emory College senior honor society, was designed by Eric Clements and executed in silver and gold by the Worshipful Company of Goldsmiths. In the teardrop at the apex of the mace, against a background of oxidized silver, is a freestanding representation in gold of a human skeleton. This is Dooley, the “spirit” of Emory, who traditionally “rises” once each spring and for a week rules campus. Immediately below the skeleton, in an open teardrop, is a gold sphere divided (by stippling) into eight segments. Topping the sphere is a simple cross, symbolizing the relationship of Emory University to the Methodist church. The seal of the university is sculptured in gold within the circular base.

Before each school in the procession, the school’s student marshal carries its gonfalon, a banner in the color associated with the respective school’s degree: medicine, green; public health, salmon; nursing, apricot; theology, scarlet; law, purple; and business, drab. The gonfalon of the graduate school is gold representing Emory’s gold, and the gonfalons of Emory College and Oxford College represent Emory’s blue.

EMORY ALUMNI LEGACY MEDALLION

Graduating students who have a parent, grandparent, and/or sibling who is also an Emory graduate are wearing specially commissioned medallions hanging from blue and gold ribbons. The medallions are expressions of the university’s gratitude to those families who have chosen to continue the Emory education tradition throughout the generations.

THE COMMENCEMENT SETTING

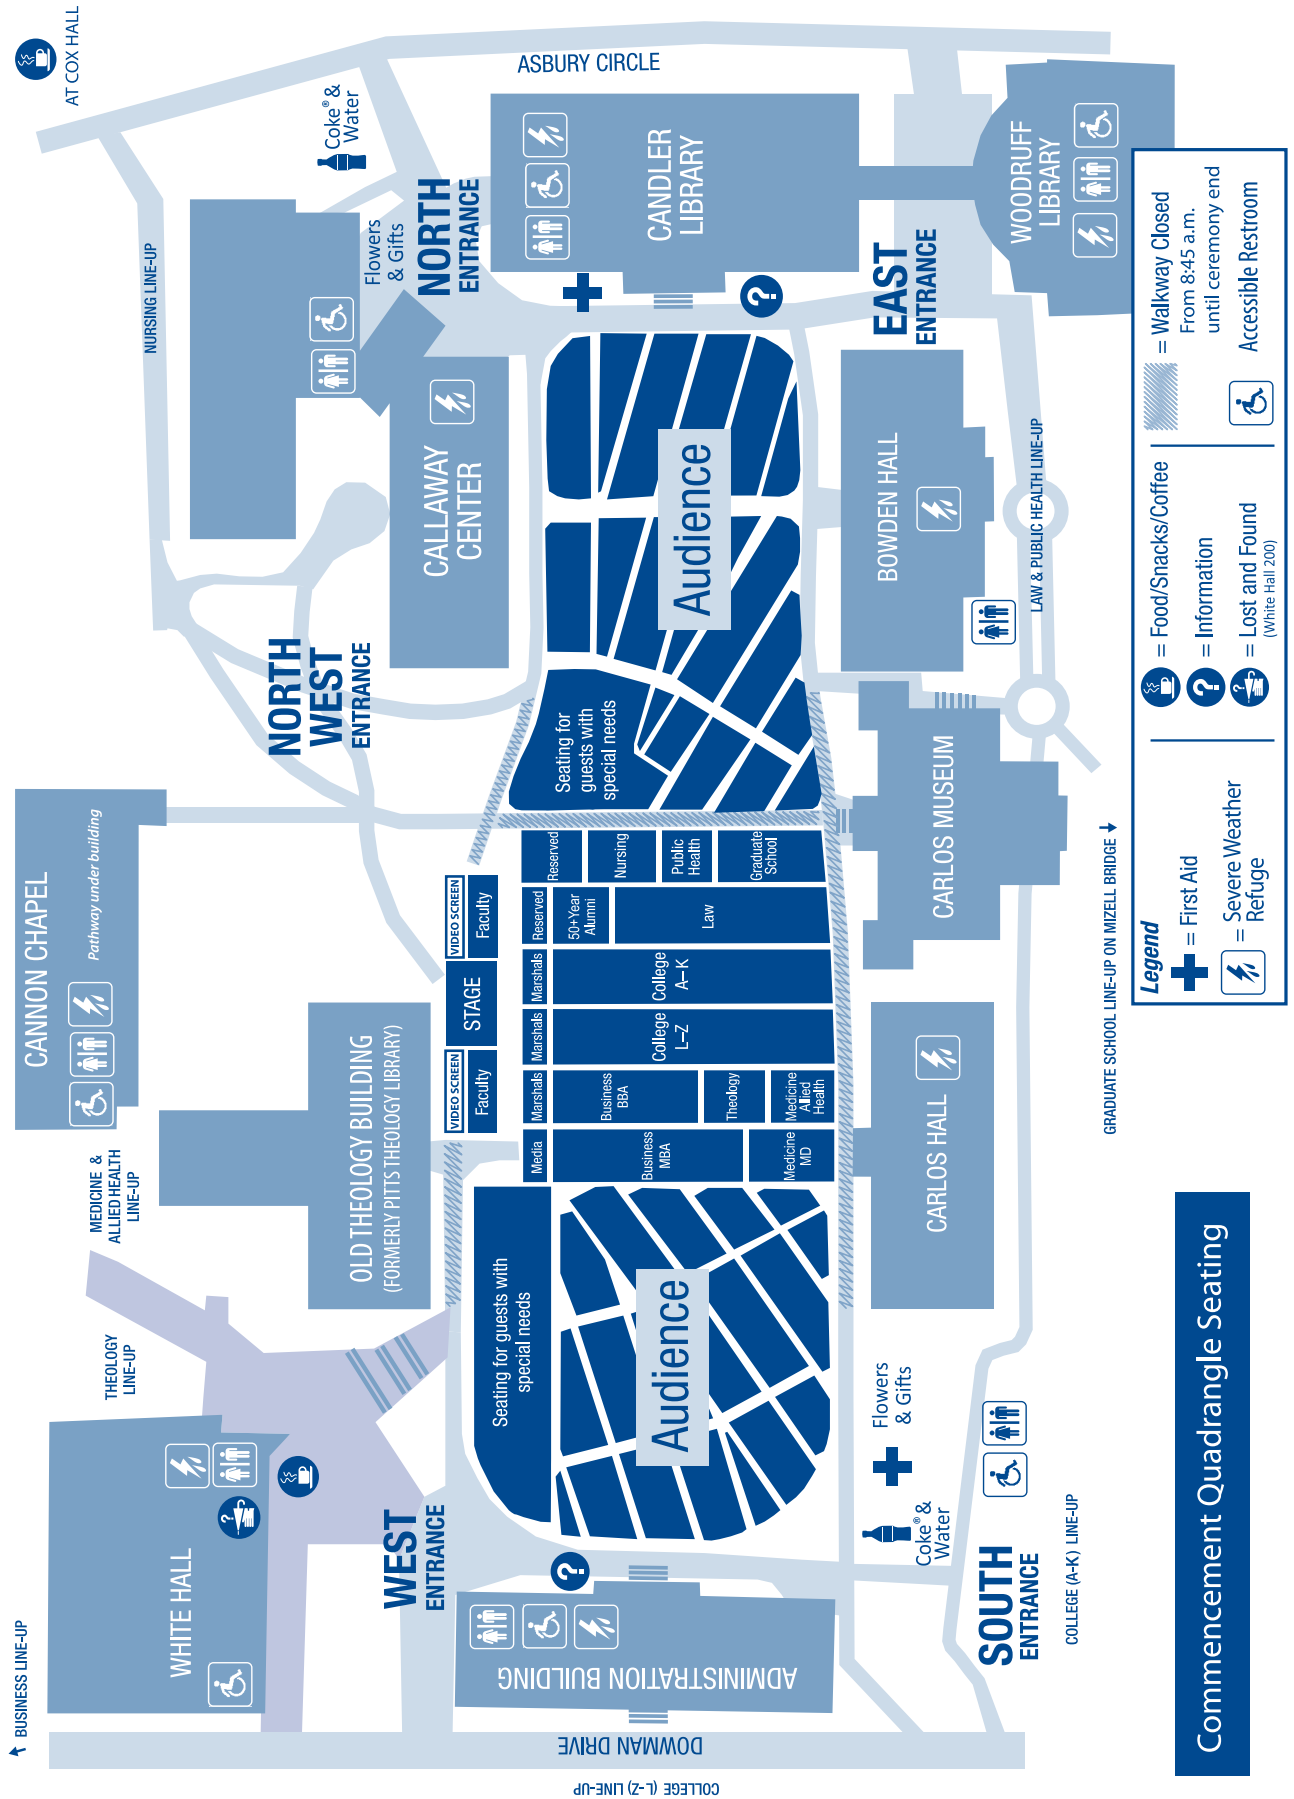

Spectators on the Quadrangle are seated facing the former Pitts Theology Library, one of the two oldest buildings on the Atlanta campus. Designed by the distinguished Pittsburgh architect Henry Hornbostel (1867–1961), the Old Theology Building was the original theology building in 1916. It was renovated in 1975 by architect Paul Rudolph to house the expanded library collection of Candler School of Theology.

Directly behind the spectators are Carlos Hall, the other original campus building, and the expanded Michael C. Carlos Museum. Formerly home to the School of Law, Carlos Hall was renovated in 1986 according to a design by Michael Graves to house the museum and the Department of Art History. The museum is named for the philanthropist who donated most of the cost of the facility. It was designed to maintain the classic symmetry and proportion of the surrounding buildings, which are listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Bowden Hall, east of the museum, was constructed in 1951 in the same style as the original campus buildings. Originally the History Building, it was renamed in 1991 in honor of the late Henry L. Bowden, former chair of the Board of Trustees of Emory University. To the southeast of Bowden Hall is the Center for Library and Information Resources. The center joins the tall, red-tile-crowned Robert W. Woodruff Library and is linked to the Asa Griggs Candler Memorial Library at the east end of the Quadrangle. Candler Library was dedicated in 1926 in honor of the man who donated the land for the campus and who provided the university with strong leadership in its early years.

Next to the Old Theology Building is the Loula Walker and Ely Reeves Callaway Sr. Memorial Center. Thanks to a generous gift from alumnus Ely R. Callaway Jr. in honor of his parents, this center joins the former Humanities Building with the original Physics Building, which was constructed in 1919.

At the west end of the Quadrangle is the Administration Building (1955), a gift of Charles Howard Candler. Like his father, Asa, Charles chaired the Board of Trustees for many years. Between the Administration Building and the former Pitts Library sits the more modern White Hall, the main classroom building of Emory College. Above the trees on the north side of the Quadrangle are the curved red roof of the William R. Cannon Chapel—designed by Paul Rudolph and dedicated in 1981—and the towers of Emory University Hospital to the east.
