Reach across Disciplines

Thrive in Retirement

Celebrate Distinguished Careers

English Nursing Theology
In the Emeritus College faculty, spouses, partners, and friends in higher education find a place to contribute to the larger Emory community, to reinvent themselves, and to learn from each other.

The Emory tradition of excellence and creativity flourishes in the Emeritus College. I invite you to become part of this evolving, thriving community of scholars, mentors, and volunteers.

—Susanne Thomas, Director

“DON’T SIMPLY RETIRE FROM SOMETHING; HAVE SOMETHING TO RETIRE TO”

—Harry Emerson Fosdick

Join the Emeritus College today.

Be a mentor, attend a lecture, apply for a fellowship or a mini-grant, join an interdisciplinary seminar, become a volunteer, tap into your creative potential, share your ideas, your poems, your essays. You’ll be glad you did.

www.emory.edu/emeritus

Next time you’re on campus, stop by the Luce Center for a chat. Our door is always open, and we’d love to meet you.

Selected Programs

- Bianchi Mini-Grants
- Emeritus College Interdisciplinary Seminar
- Living History
- Lunch Colloquium
- Retirement Seminar Series
- The Sheth Distinguished Lecture on Creativity in Later Life

About the Emory University Emeritus College

The Emory University Emeritus College (EUEC) is an association of Emory retired faculty and administrative staff established in 2001 to advance the intellectual and creative interests of its members, maintain their social connections with university colleagues, provide them opportunities for service to the university and the wider community, and offer them a forum for commentary on issues of broad public interest.

The Emory University Emeritus College is a member of the Association of Retirement Organizations in Higher Education (www.arohe.com).