The Gita Translated

A Festival of Poetry, Dance and Music

This evening of interdisciplinary performance will feature readings of the Gita text in Sanskrit and English, and interpretations of the verses in dance choreographed and performed by renowned Kuchipudi dancer Sasikala Penumarthy and accompanying musicians, and in music composed by Steve Everett and Tong Soon Lee of Emory's Department of Music and performed by members of the Vega String Quartet and the Emory Gamelan Ensemble, respectively.

Sponsored by the Religion, Society, and the Arts Initiative, Emory University
Cosponsored by the Michael C. Carlos Museum and the Program of South and Southeast Asian Studies, Emory University
